VOLUME 11 — MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1921 — NO. 313

CELEBRATION WILL BE IN SEPTEMBER

SOLDIERS REUNION AND CENTENNIAL WILL BE 6TH AND 7TH

ASKS FOR SUGGESTIONS

Board of Directors of Chamber of Commerce Will Act as Executive Committee.

September 7 and 8 are the dates finally set for the annual soldier's reunion and Missouri Centennial celebration. The three months intervening will be filled with work of committees planning the biggest celebration Maryville has ever had.

Every fraternal and patriotic organization except one was represented at the meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night. These representatives, under the plans approved, will be a general committee from which chairmen will be selected for subcommittees whic hwill perfect the details of the big celebration. The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be an executive committee, in whose hands is left the selection of subcommittees, financing, and other details.

The dates selected are those suggested by the representatives of soldier organizations after it was found the August dates conflicted with the Chautauqua. Dates late in July were suggested by other members of the general committee, but it was finally left to the board of directors of the Chamber of Comerce to fix the dates after conference with the soldier representatives.

Advocates of the earlier date urged that the celebration could be carried out better in cooperation with the State Teachers' College, which will be in session at that time. The early dates would also avoid conflict with dates of county fairs and celebrations in other towns. The entire group, however, wished to abide by the wishes of the soldiers for whom the celebration is planned.

While the State Teachers' College may not be able to take a prominent part in the celebration on the dates set, Miss Olive DeLuce pledged the support of all members of the faculty who will be here at that time.

The first day, September 7, will be entirely given over to the soldiers' reunion, while the Centennial celebration will be given on the second day. Every citizen is urged to send suggestions in writing to the Chamber of Comerce, either on entertaining the soldiers or on plans for the observance of Missouri's one hundredth anniversary as a state.

Among other features there is planned monster pageant depicting Misouri's growth in the hundred years, together with the local history of Maryville and the county. One or more spots of historic interest will be marked with boulders with appropriate inscriptions.

WORK ON NEW HIGH SCHOOL ADDITION PROCEEDS RAPIDLY

With Twenty Men Working, the Walls Have Risen Almost to Second Story Level.

Work on the new addition to the High School Building has been going forward rapidly for the past two weeks. The frames for the windows which will let a flood of light into the new gymnasium are in place, and the brick work has been completed almost to the second story. Four big steel trusses are on the ground and will probably be put in place the latter part of next week.

The new addition will be of the same height as the main building. The second floor level will be the same, and the upper corridor will be extended into the new structure, where the commercial and Smith-Hughes departments will be located.

H. D. Pampel, contractor, has a force of more than twenty men working on the building. In his absence from the city, Lee Carpenter is overseeing the work.

HIS HOOTCH COSTS GROVER HATCHER $145.30, PLUS

It Wasn't the Original Cost But the Upkeep That Made His Jag Expensive

The contents of three quart bottles and one pint bottle found in the Ford touring car he was driving cost Grover Hatcher a total of $145.30 in the court of Justice Jesse Robertson this morning—plus whatever he originally paid for the bottles.

Hatcher, who lives two south of Graham, was fined on two counts, driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition and driving an automobile without a proper license number. On the first, he was given the maxium fine of $100, while on the second Judge Robertson imposed a lighter penalty of $25.00. The costs in the two cases brought the total to $145.30.

Hatcher pleaded guilty to both counts, although on the second he said he had borrowed the car and did not know it bore the license number of another car.

Marshall E. E. Tilton arrested Hatcher yesterday when he drove wildly down Main Street in the noon hour, careening from one side of the street to the other and finally running into and damaging another car. When Prosecuting Attorney McCaffrey mentioned the empty bottles found in the car, Hatcher said:

"I don't know anything about the bottles. Maybe Hilsenbeck put them in there for oil or something."

JAPANESE WAR MINISTER'S RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED

Empire Faces Cabinet Crisis As Result of Clash Over Military Policy.

Tokio, June 4.—A cabinet exists here today as a result of the resignation of Lieutenant Tanka, War Minister. Tanka offered his resignation following a clash over the Empires military policy. The resignation was accepted and imperial sanction was given to appoint Major General Yamanishi vice-minister in succession.

HYDE STRONG FOR COUNTY UNIT LAW

URGES VOTERS NOT TO SIGN REFERENDUM PETITION

SIGNING ROBS CHILDREN

Appeal to Progressive Voters Not to Endanger Education in the Rural Communities.

Jefferson City, June 4.—Governor Hyde and A. C. McKibbin, director of publicity of the Republican state committee, issued a signed statement urging the voters of the state to refuse to sign the petitions seeking to submit the county school unit law to a vote of the people. C. B. Whittaker, member of the legislature from Hickory County, has been active in circulating the petitions, but the extent to which they have been signed is not known here. The statement follows:

"There has recently come to the atttention of the undersigned a letter purporting to come from Mr. O. B. Whittaker of Hickory County, in which he urges voters throughout the state to sign petitions seeking to withhold the operation of the county school unit law until the election in November, 1922.

The Provisions of the Law.

"This measure, enacted at the recent session provides for:

"1. Uniform length of school term.

"2. Uniform tax levy which to support the schools.

"3. Equal school opportunities for all rural boys and girls to obtain both elementary and high school education.

"4. A county boadr of education elected by the people, who are required to furnish free high schools to all boys and girls of their respective counties.

Simplicity Means Better Schools.

"This is one of the greatest school measures ever enacted in the state and should not be delayed by the referendum. The progressive voters who believe in education and equal opportunity for our boys and girls, in the rural as well as the urban communities will not sign this petition.

"The County unit school law simply means better school privileges, and better opportunities for the boys and girls. It's a duty we owe our children to see that this splendid educational improvement is put into force and effect without unnecessary delay.

"For illustration, take a town near you with a population of perhaps twenty-five hundred. It is the seat of a splendid high school where all of the different branches are taught by specialists. The boys and girls are rapidly forging to the front. What inducement could be presented to those people to divide their district up into districts for fewer than two hundred people each, and their schools into twelve 1-room schools? No argument on earth could induce them to make such a change, yet that is substantially the condition under which rural schools are conducted.

Signing Robs Children

"The county unit school law seeks to make possible in the country the same kind of schools as they have in town.

"By all means discourage the circulation of these petitions. Do not sign as your act might rob your boy or girl of the chance to obtain a high school education, in many cases all the parents have to give their children. Bear in mind that this is not a party measure.

"You are respectfully referred to sections 5908 and 5914 R. S., 1919, which you will find prescribe the penalty for obtaining names or signing illegally a referendum petition."

FIRST TENNIS TOURNAMENT OE SUMMER OPENS MONDAY

Twelve Teams Enter For Mixed Doubles on College Courts—Other Activities Planned.

The first tennis tournament of the summer quarter at the College starts Monday and will be in mixed doubles. Miss Mary MacLeod of the college will have charge of all the tennis this summer and this is the first of a series of tournaments. There will be matches in girls' and boys' singles, girls' and boys' doubles and mixed doubles. Later in the summer the societies of the college will compete with one another in tennis.

About twelve teams have entered in the tourney for Monday and play is to start early in the morning. This shows promise of being the fastest contest that has ever been staged on the college courts, as there are several players in school who have quite a reputation as wielders of the racquet. Earl Bland and Bill Richards who attended school here last summer are both fast players and Ruth Miller, Maryville High School champion has enrolled in school.

Miss MacLeod has planned other activities for the girls of the college. These include hiking, games and folk dancing.

The Farmers Problem.

Every farmer knows how to increase his acreage production. This may not have occurred to many city people but it is a fact.

It is possible even to double the yield of many fields, but it would not as a rule be profitable. Intensive cultivation, including much hand work, and the liberal application of fertilizers, together with irrigation or drainage in case of need, will do it. But the additional cost is liable to be more than the increase revenue.

Poor farming never pays, anywhere. The objective of every progressive and careful farmer is to get the maximum results, avoiding soil exhaustion, and resorting to the means of stimulation readily at hand only to such an extent as will be profitable. This is what constitutes real agricultural education.

There is a point at which the average yield of any particular field can be maintained, roughly, of course. Next to the character of the soil and the climatic conditions, the chief influence in determining this point is the price of its product.

Before the world starves it will pay prices for foodstuffs that will justify forcing the larger acre yields at the necessarily higher unit cost. Or it will go to work itself, and devote to the land that measure of cultivation, which, since Adam, has assured a livelihood at least.—The Agricultural Review.

Childbirth Greatest in Fall.

Paris, June 2.—Throughout the whole civilized world the greatest number of children are born in the months of October and November, according to Dr. E. Apert, of the French Children's Hospital, who has just completed a study of birth statistics of all civilized countries. Dr. Apert observes that in these two months are born also the largest number of illegitimate children and that the greatest number of eminent men have birthdays in October and November.

The Life Story of Georges Carpentier

INSTALLMENT THREE

Pittsburg, June 4.—Shortly after he won the French welterweight cahmpionship, Georges Carpentier ran into his second American opponent.

He was matched with Dixie Kid, the colored boxer. He had been taking a vacation at Trouville and claims he was not in condition for the fight which was stopped in the fifth round to save Georges from a terrific beating.

Always optimistic, Carpentier's friends refused to take the setback handed him by Dixie Kid seriously and their faith in him was upheld when he made a chopping block of Sid Burns, then an English idol, in his first appearance in a London ring. Shortly afterward he met and defeated Young Josephs. This bout was also held in London and the British critics began to concede that Carpentier was no flash in the pan.

It was not until late in 1911 and in 1912, however, that the French champion began to assimilate a number of hard earned lessons in the American style of boxing.

In December, 1911, Harry Lewis, always a great boxer and, in his day, one of the sturdiest of middleweights, crossed the Atlantic to seek glory. Eventually, Carpentier, who now had entered middle weight rank, was matched with the American fighter, though not before he knocked out Jim Sullivan, British middleweight champion, in two rounds at Monte Carlo.

Paris was on the qui vive over the Lewis-Carpentier match. Georges' friends had come to learn, through following him on his climb, that they could always expect him to make a great fight. And they were not disappointed. At the end of 20 rounds Carpentier, who had fought like a master ring man, was awarded the decision. Lewis admitted his youthful opponent was "some ringster" but thought he should have had no worse than a draw.

The victory over Harry Lewis made something of a national hero of Carpentier and he now took the pleasant plunge into the realm of fat purses for the first time.

Following the Lewis fight, he toured France, meeting and beating many local champions and cahring in on his fame. In April, 1912, he was matched with George Gunther, an American colored fighter who had met such as Tony Caponi, Jack Blackburn, Harry Lewis, Jewey Smith, Seaman Parsons and P. C. Curran. Gunther was fairly clever and a very tough man and Descamps at first hesitated to match Carpentier with him. It was Georges' insistancy, in the end, that resulted in this match being made.

Like many of Carpentier's earlier fights, the Gunther bout went the limit. In 20 rounds Gunther gave Carpentier one of the most stubborn fights he had ever had and the French lad was fortunate to have kept out of harm's way and earned the decision. Some months later, at Nice, this pair met a second time and Georges proved that he had learned much by giving Gunther a decisive whipping in 15 rounds.

The popularity of American boxers in France at this time lured Willie Lewis and others to cross the pond, and it was in the few months following his last bout with Gunther that Georges proved to Willie Lewis, Papke and Klaus that he had a fighting heart.

Next Week At the Movies

At The Empire

When Ben Ames Williams' story "Toujours de L'Audace" was published in the Saturday Evening Post, it instantly created a sensation. Perhaps millions of persons read the story and now that it has been adapted to the screen for Walace Reid under the name of "Always Audacious," which will be shown Monday and Tusday.

In this remarkable photoplay, Mr. Reid plays two roles—those of Perry Danton, a wealthy club man and dilettante, and Slim Attucks, a crook. Both men were born on the same day and both are as alike as two peas. The crook conceives the idea of doing away with his double and assuming his place in society and in the business world. He causes Danton to be shanghaied and with the aid of confederates personates him successfully until Danton turns up determined to regain his own. How this is accomplished makes a higly interesting story and the climaxis one of the most amazng ever seen in a motion picture.

Of course, there is a pretty love story of which Margaret Loomis, the leading woman, is the central figure. Mr. Reid doubles in many of the scenes as Danton and Attucks with surprising results.

Admirers of Chas. Ray will welcome his next picture of "Peaceful Valley" which will be the feature attraction Wednsday and Thursday of this week. It is another of Ray's typical "hick" stories where he takes the role of Hosiah Howe, a hard-working farmer lad of happy disposition, with a widowed mother and little sister to provide for.

Ward Andrews, handsome city chap who lives by his wits, gets an option on the unproductive Howe farm when he realizes that its nasty tasting water will some day make the owner wealthy. Attracted by pretty little Martha Howe, he easily turns the girl's head and induces her to elope with him.

Hosiah, in the meantime, has become greatly infatuated with the beautiful Virginia Rand, who is stopping at the nearby summer hotel with her father.

Hosiah's romantic dreams vanish, however, when he learns of the disappearance of his little sister. His quest for Martha in the great city is in vain, and he goes back to the farm when the last of his money is spent. But the next season the Rands and Andrews return to the summer hotel. Virginia sees Hosiah working as a waiter and greets him warmly in spite of the peril to the dishes he is holding aloft in a tray. She even dances with him to the astonishment of all present. In this dance scene Charles Ray, as the farmer-waiter gives a side-splitting exhibition of the terpsichorean art.

Weary and heart broken, Martha starts for home, loses courage and throws herself into a pond. Hosiah arrives just in time to save her. Later in a clash with Andrews, Hosiah sees the scar on his antagonist's arm and guesses the truth. At this point the famous Ray wallop comes into play and the evildoer is completely vanquished. His efforts to obtain the valuable Howe farm and to force Virginia to marry him by compromising her are also thwarted.

A delightful drama of love, hate, human emotions, with a slight sprinkling of martial scenes, is "Held by the Enemy," the Paramount picturization of William Gillette's famous play which will be shown Friday and Saturday.

There is just enough of the Civil War flavor about "Held by the Enemy" to make it thoroughly relishable. The story has to do with Rachel Hayne, a beautiful young Southern girl, who is supposedly a widow who lives with her family in an old manor which is in possession of the Federal toops commanded by Colonel Prescott. That oficer loves Rachel and he is about to avow his reciprocated love, when Captain Hayne, the husband, turns up.

Hayne escapes after being sentenced to death and after being wounded is recaptured. After several stirring incidents he commits suicide. Jack Holt as Colonel Prescott gives a finished performance while the Rachel of Miss Ayres is artistic.

Others in cluded in the all star cast are Wanda Hawley, Walter Hiers, Josephine Crowell, Lillian Leighton, Lewis Stone, Robert Cain ect.

At The Electric

"The Furnace," the new William D. Taylor production released at a Realart Special, an unusually powerful photodrama, which will be shown Monday and Tuesday will be the feature attraction of the week.

The theme is striking, the action and plot gripping and well portrayed by an all-star cast of notables, in-Agnes Ayres, Jerome Patrick, Theodore Roberts, Helen Dunbar, Betty Francisco, Milton Sills, Mayme Kelso and others. Big things are usually expected of such a director as William D. Taylor, who produced the picture, but the general opinion is that this time Mr. Taylor has smashed home a real winner.

The story revolves aroung the society marriage of a wealthy Englishman and a popular London actress, the confession immediately afterward that he married his wife merely because he had heard that she had threatened to sue him for breach of promise if he jilted her. Their subsequent estrangement and the many dramatic complications which follow before a reconciliation is effected make a very tense drama.

The picture is an adaption by Julia Crawford Ivers of the new novel, "The Furnace," by the English writer, "Pan," which promises to create a sensation among fiction lovers and is just coming off the press.

"The Greater Claim," a Metro special starring adorable Alice Lake, comes Wednesday and Thursday.

This story will be welcomed by the thousands who know Alice Lake's splendid achievements. She plays the part of Mary Smith, the Follies beauty, married by young and wealthy "Chuck" Everard. The latter is kiddnapped by his irate father and shipped to sea, and Mary takes to Broadway's cabaret life, in revenge. Then her child, thorugh strange circumstances, becomes adopted into its grandfather's home, where it proves the means of reconciliation, but only after a shrewd Solomon's choice foils the intrigue of two adventurers.

The supporting cast includes Jack Dougherty, Edward Cecil, De Witt Jennings, Florence Gilbert and Lenore Lynard. Wesley Ruggles directed the picture, personally supervised by Bayadr Veiller, Director of Productions. Albert Sheby Le Vino adapted the story of Izola Forrester and Mann Page for the screen, and Sidney Ullman designed and executed the art interiors.

On Friday night William Duncan will be seen in the next episode of "Fighting Fate." There will also be a two reel Western and two reels of comedy.

"Fixed by George," the fourth of the famous fun features of Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran will be shown Saturday. It is better, if anything, than "Everything but the Aruth," La La Lucile" and "Once a Plumer." The old farcial situation of bringing a number of opposing actions together and keeping them together against their will is utilized by Edgar Franklin, who wrote the story. He uses the novel means of a gang of mysterious auto thieves who force four parties of motorists seek to shelter from the rain in a vacant country house.

There is nothing old about the situations that follow or the relationships of the various factions, however. For instance, George, trying to "fix" the quarrel between his friend, the doctor and his wife, plans to confront the doctor's wife with the doctor's patient and promote a showdown. But other visitors arrive; the father of the pretty patient and his son's wife-to-be, the son himself, the daugther's sweetheart, and even the wife of George, the fixer. What happens must be seen to be laughed at.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran have made the most of every possibility for mirth producing, and the film shows careful planning on the part of this talented team of comedy stars.

A cowboy on a South Dakota ranch recently captured a live eagle with a lariat. He saw the bird swoop down on a calf and waited until the eagle had eaten his fill. Then he rode toward it, roped it and carried it home a captive.

An average spruce tree yields about five hundred pounds of paper when it is reduced to that product.

African Women Study Styles.

London, June 2.—West African women will soon be wearing the latest English and American fashions, for several native African girls are now in London studying dressmaking.

For some time girls who wished to be in the mode have had to wait for the arrival of consignments of smart gowns from Europe, for the local dressmakers hardly produced creations of a style that satisfied their tastes. As a result, some enterprising young women of color decided to take the trip to London in order to be trained as modistes.

Hundreds of people have visited the store today and have bought merchandise which they will remember for a long time to come. If you were not among the crowd today be sure and come any day next week.

A great feast of bargains is still awaiting you.

Our object in holding this sale every year is to show our gratitude for the liberal patronage which the public has given us from day to day during the year and in return it is our pleasure to give them bargains which are impossible to duplicate elsewhere.

We hold this sale every year without one cent of profit to ourselves. We hope to see you all in our store every day next week.

We have always borne the reputation of having the highest class of merchandise to be found any place. It is impossible for manufacturers to show us merchandise in too high quality for us to buy for our patrons, and then always sell it for just as little as we can afford. WHAT MADE THE CHANGE?

This Woman says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a New Woman

Pittsburgh, Pa. — "Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had bearing-down pains in my sides, stomach and back so badly that I could hardly stand up. I was white and very thin and nervous, had a poor appetite and only weighed 112 pounds. I took ten bottles without missing one dose and gave it a fair trial. When I finished the last bottle everyone asked me what made the wonderful change in me. I told them about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I recommend it wherever I can. I give you permission to publish this letter to help suffering women as your remedies are a godsend and made a new woman of me."—Mrs. F. A. Baker, 4749 Butler St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Why will women drag around day after day, suffering from backaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness and "the blues," enduring a miserable existence when they have such evidence as the above that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable remedy for such troubles. For nearly forty years this grand old root and herb medicine has been restoring the women of America to health and strength.

What a Business Man Says

"A well worn savings bank book showing systematic and frequent deposits is the best recommendation a young man can present when applying for a position of trust. It is not only an evidence of thrift but shows a determination to live on less than the income, which, in the last analysis, is the road to a competence. Recommendations and influence of friends of the applicant fade into insignificance with the employer when compared with the above mentioned characteristics."

Children of Elderly Parents Have Been Great Geniuses

New York, June 3—"Most great men are born of aged parents."

Those who would give geniuses to the world had better wait till forty to become parents according to Casper L. Redfield, Chicago member of the American Genetic Association. Mr. Redfield declares that the majority of the world's brilliant citizens are the children of men and women of forty years or more.

"The only great men whom we have been able to discover who were born of young parents," says Mr. Redfield, "were William the Conquerer and Frederick the Great."

Aspects and effects of that strange phenomenon called "genius" have always beguiled scientists into a study of its vagaries, causes and the nearness to a less desirable state of mind (insanity) which it so nearly resembles at times.

But why should the child of the middle-aged be possessed of what almost any mother would be pleased to see develop in her dearest possessions?

Is the mental stability of the adult, his experience and wisdom, transmitted to offspring? Do wise parents in the prime of life have brilliant children? Is this the explanation?

Opinion of Andre Tridon.

Nothing of the sort, declares Andre Tridon, psycho-analyst, author and successful explorer into the mysteries of the mind, who offers a unique explanation for the great who are born of the aged.

"It is quite true," explained Mr. Tridon, "that the child of a couple born when the parents are no longer young is sure to be the superior of the first born or even the second child.

"The first born is sure to be inferior to the children that follow when the parents have gradually become better adapted to each other and when a better understanding and more freedom exist between them than in the first years of married life.

"Goethe's parents were old when he was born. So were Napoleon's. And so were those of most famous men who were not the first or second, but usually third, fourth or sometimes last of a large family."

But what is it about a middle aged mother and an old father that makes for genius?

"The discontent of the child who finds himself with parents that are too old for him," answers Mr. Tridon, who has made scientific excursions about the south poles of the sub-conscious and brought back to the attention of our conscious minds an array of reasons motives and fcomplexes which really explain phenomena.

"The genius grows out of the dis satisfied child.

"Genius itself is an intense dissat isfaction.

Choice of Genius and Insanity.

Parents that are greatly in advance of him as regards age strike no note of comradeship with a child. They do not play with him or amuse him. He decides he does not care to imitate them, as a child always imitates a parent he admires.

"Discontented people have a choice of two future states if their dissatisfaction rises to a high pitch. Insanity or genius must be the choice.

"If such a child then lives in a favorable environment, and is in good mental and physical health, he will become a genius. If not—if he is weak in physique and unsteady in mind—he will arrive at insanity.

"The dissatisfied person who goes insane makes a world for himself that does not exist for other people.

"The dissatisfied but healthy person, the one whose physique can endure his turmoil of feeling seeks to create a new world, too, but not such a mad conception as that in which the demented are happy.

Child Must Have Amusement.

"Parents should play with but not try to mould a child. They can't really change him. He imitates them, or not. The child who goes to the movies likes the comedian with funny feet cane and mustache who can make him laugh. The parent who wishes his son to follow him must gain his attention by making himself amusing, a creator of fun, a desirable person.

"People of forty or fifty are not able to stand on their heads to make their children laugh, so the youngster loses patience with those persons who make him want to change the world all about.

"With only grownups to imitate, or with brothers or sisters enough older so that they try to boss him, the child seems to have a whole group of people playing parent. The second child of a family already has a playmate in the first, provided there is not too great a difference in age.

"Another point in favor of a child born to middle-aged parents is that he is apt to be physically stronger than the first child."
